Peralta on his farm

Villa Hermoza, Utcubamba Province

Mr. Peralta owns a farm that is 4.25 hectares and he's a member of the El Palto co-op, located in Amazonian Andes in northern Peru. He's also the father of two teenage girls, and recently had the opportunity to send one of his daughters on an educational trip to Canada. Upon her return, she was able to share her experiences with her community. Mr. Peralta's hard work and dedication to his farm continues to provide opportunities for his family and the community. El Palto co-op produces certified Organic and Fair Trade coffee and has invested a portion of their premium to renovate their crops and convert their members to organic methods that work to conserve the rainforest.

Through a joint partnership with our friends at Ecotierra, Atlantic Specialty Coffee has offset 6 tons of CO2 emissions related to the transport of select Microlots from El Palto. The verified carbon credits are generated from a forest preservation project developed by Peruvian based Bosques Amazonicos del Peru (BAM) and aims at reducing emissions from deforestation and degradation of virgin rainforest in southeastern Peru.
